

Stefan Pohlmann (Editor)

Facing an Ageing World –
Recommendations and Perspectives

Deutsches Zentrum für Altersfragen, Berlin
(German Centre of Gerontology)

Contents

Chapter 1: Ageing as a global phenomenon.....	1
Stefan Pohlmann
1.1 Demographic trends – what we share and where we vary	1
1.1.1 The more developed countries.....	3
1.1.2 The less developed countries.....	5
1.1.3 The developing countries	5
1.1.4 Conclusion.....	6
1.2 Milestones in UN policies	7
1.2.1 The International Action Plan of 1982	7
1.2.2 Further initiatives.....	8
1.2.3 The 2002 International Action Plan on Ageing.....	8
1.2.4 The Regional Implementation Strategy of the Economic Commission for Europe	9
1.2.5 Conclusion.....	11
 Chapter 2: Demographic change and the labour market:
What are the challenges we are facing?	13
2.1 Change in paradigm for older workers and retirement policies – the German case.....	13
Gerhard Naegele
2.2 Integration by contribution	17
Friedrich Buttler
2.3 Ageing: human resources need positive policies	21
Luigina De Santis
2.3.1 Capitalizing on human resources through collective bargaining	22
2.3.2 Link between labour market exit and skills levels: the gender divide	23
2.3.3 Addressing new needs: dependency	24
2.4 Family-friendly measures – the Austrian answer.....	27
Herbert Haupt
2.5 Remaining economically active	31
John Murray
2.5.1 Age discrimination	33
2.5.2 Balancing work and other responsibilities	33

2.5.3 Flexible retirement	34
2.5.4 The future	34
2.6 Foster longer working lives for older workers	35
John Rother
2.7 Paradox: Longevity and early retirement	43
Herwig Schlögl
2.7.1 Summary.....	44
Chapter 3: Demographic change – Opportunities and limitations of intergenerational solidarity	47
3.1 Intergenerational relations	47
Ursula M. Staudinger
3.2 Population Ageing – challenges and opportunities	53
Anna Diamantopoulou
3.3 How to improve intergenerational solidarity.....	55
Alexandre Kalache
3.4 Special situation of older people in Central and Eastern Europe	59
Mateja Kozuh Novak
3.5 Changing domains of populations	61
Aykut Toros
3.6 Prerequisites for intergenerational solidarity.....	65
Frank Vandenbroucke
Chapter 4: Dimensions of prevention and care	69
4.1 A life span perspective on prevention	69
Andreas Kruse
4.1.1 Towards a comprehensive understanding of health promotion and prevention	69
4.1.2 A new model of physical and mental health	70
4.1.3 Plasticity in old age and implications for rehabilitation.....	72
4.1.4 Avoiding dependency in old age	73
4.1.5 Mental disorders and dependency in old age	74
4.1.6 Consequences	74

4.2 Medical aspects of prevention and strategies for promoting independence in old age	77
Andreas E. Stuck
4.2.1 Comprehensive geriatric assessment	77
4.2.2 Preventive home visits	78
4.2.3 Health Risk Appraisal	80
4.2.4 Conclusion and recommendations	82
4.3 Gerontological contributions to well being in old age	85
Bo Hagberg
4.3.1 Possibilities and obstacles	85
4.3.2 The psycho-physiological assumption on aging	86
4.3.3 The psycho-physiological aging model	89
4.3.4 Implementation	91
4.3.5 Conclusions	94
4.4 Promoting Active Ageing	97
Rocio Fernandez-Ballesteros
4.4.1 Paradigmatic shift	97
4.4.2 European initiatives	97
4.4.3 Conclusions	101
4.5 The personal care budget in the Netherlands	103
Jessica Aarnink
Chapter 5: Productivity and Active Ageing	107
5.1 Productivity and modes of human activity	107
Andreas Kruse
5.1.1 Productivity as realisation of life competencies beyond occupational contexts	108
5.1.2 Comprehensive conceptualisations of productivity	109
5.1.3 Societal and individual chances of older people's productivity	110
5.2 The principles and potential of active ageing	113
Alan Walker
5.2.1 What is active ageing?	113
5.2.2 The potential for active ageing	115
5.2.3 A strategy on active ageing	118

5.3 Productivity and creativity in later life	119
Leopold Rosenmayr
5.3.1 Important social variation within "productive aging"	119
5.3.2 Productive aging as a cultural task	121
5.3.3 Political consequences of a growing late-life potential	122
5.3.4 Sociological trends and counter-currents	122
5.3.5 What is creativity?	123
5.3.6 Specificity of late-life creativity	124
5.3.7 The battle between destructive forces and the courage to create	125
5.4 Getting involved – A look at political and civic participation in old age or will the 60s generation re-storm the barricades?	127
Sara E. Rix
5.5 Older people's perceptions of ageing and contribution to a productive society in times of rapid societal and political changes	135
Andrei I. Podolskij & Peter Coleman
5.5.1 Examples of positive (constructive) coping strategies	139
5.5.2 Example of uncertain coping strategy	140
5.5.3 Examples of negative (destructive) coping strategy	140
5.5.4 Conclusions	140
5.5.5 Appendix	141
5.6 Productivity in old age from the perspective of different generations	145
José L. Vega, Belen Bueno, Jose Buz
5.6.1 How productivity appears in each generation	145
5.6.2 The life-span concept of productivity	148
5.6.3 How different generations perceive the productivity of the elderly	148
5.6.4 Conclusions: Towards a post-modern concept of productivity in old age	150
Chapter 6: Sharing experiences	151
6.1 The meaning of best practices	151
Bernd Marin
6.1.1 Main questions	152
6.1.2 Queries addressing good practices	154

6.2 Measures and strategies in the United Kingdom.....	157
Ian McCartney
6.2.1 Planning for a secure retirement.....	157
6.2.2 The importance of employment.....	158
6.2.3 Age positive campaign	159
6.2.4 Legislation/Age Advisory Group	160
6.2.5 Partnerships	160
6.3 Efforts of developing countries	163
Mohammed Nizamuddin
6.3.1 Situation of older persons in developing countries	163
6.3.2 Successful community-based practices from Asian countries (from an ESCAP publication)	165
6.4 Advancing policies in social and economic development.....	169
Johan Schölvínck
6.5 Socio-economic impact of ageing in Albania	173
Valentina Leskaj
References.....	175