

Expressing the World

Skepticism, Wittgenstein, and Heidegger

ANTHONY RUDD

OPEN COURT
Chicago and La Salle, Illinois

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction: Skepticism and Expression	1
PART I: Skepticism and Externalism	9
1. Skepticism	11
1.1. Types of Skepticism	11
1.2. Skeptical Arguments: Dreams and Hallucinations	19
1.3. The Causal Argument	28
1.4. Skepticism, Science, and Common Sense	34
2. Externalism	43
2.1. Realist Externalism	44
2.2. Kantian Externalism	49
3. Heidegger and the "Scandal of Philosophy"	55
3.1. Being-in-the-World and the Critique of Skepticism	55
3.2. Skepticism and the Question of Realism	60
3.3. Realism, Idealism, and the Thing-in-Itself	66
4. Wittgenstein, Externalism, and Antirealism	73
4.1. Wittgensteinians and Global Skepticism	74
4.2. Meaning, Use, and Understanding	75
4.3. Comparing Externalisms	80
4.4. Realism, Skepticism, and the External World	84
Conclusion to Part I	91

PART II: Wittgenstein and Other-Mind Skepticism	95
5. Skepticism about Other Minds	97
6. Wittgenstein on Other Minds	105
6.1. Misunderstandings of Wittgenstein	105
6.2. Other Minds: Wittgenstein's Strategy	108
6.3. The Private Language Argument	110
6.4. The Expression of Sensations	113
6.5. Expressions as Criteria	118
6.6. Realism about the Mind	120
7. Expressivism and the Mind	125
7.1. Expressive Perception	125
7.2. Types of Expressive State	131
7.3. Implications of Expressivism	137
8. Knowing Other Minds-Criticisms and Replies	141
8.1. Science and the Mind	141
8.2. The Hiddenness of the Inner	147
8.3. Knowledge and Acknowledgement	155
PART III: Heidegger and the External World	159
9. Expressivism and the Physical World	161
10. Recovering the World: Romanticism	169
10.1. Natural Supernaturalism; or, Phenomenal Noumenalism	171
10.2. Objections and Replies	177
10.3. Dejection, joy, and Horror	181
10.4. Losing the World	186
11. Phenomenology, Expressive Realism, and the External World	191
11.1. On Substance: Merleau-Ponty	192
11.2. The Later Heidegger	201
11.3. Alethia and Physis	204
11.4. Heidegger on Perceiving Things	213

12. Being Attuned	221
12.1. Anxiety and Nothingness	222
12.2. Sartre Looks at a Tree	229
12.3. Buber Looks at a Tree	233
12.4. Heidegger Looks at a Tree	240
 Bibliography	 249
Index	259