

The Mapmakers' WORLD

A CULTURAL HISTORY
OF THE EUROPEAN WORLD MAP

MARJO T. NURMINEN

JOHN NURMINEN FOUNDATION

LONDON

CONTENTS

Preface and Acknowledgements from the Editor-in-Chief 7

INTRODUCTION: MAPS AS IMAGES OF THE WORLD

– A Thousand Year Journey with the European World Map 11

I THE MEDIEVAL WORLD IN MAPS

– The Church and Seafaring Define the Borders of the World 25

How Did a Seafarer's Chart End Up in a Clergyman's Book? 25

Scholarship in the Middle Ages: Christian Doctrines and Classical Learning 29

Holy Geography – Maps as Appendices to Early Christian Books 32

Ancient Cosmography and Geography in the Macrobius Maps 37

Roman Influences in Early Medieval World Maps 38

Al-Idrisi – the Arabs as Pioneers of Medieval Cartography 44

Encyclopedic Mappae Mundi – Hanging the World Map on the Wall 50

Tales of Antiquity: Strange Peoples and Animals in the Mappae Mundi 55

Maps as Guides for the Earthly and Spiritual Journey 55

The Portolan Chart – Medieval Sailing Maps 56

The Portolan Chart: the Direction, Distance, and Scale in Maps* 60

Pietro Vesconte – Professional Cartographer 62

The World of the Catalan Map Masters – Trade at the Ends of the Earth 65

The Atlas Catala – a View Toward the Riches of the East 70

The "Book About the Locations of the Shores of our Sea the Mediterranean and its Shape" 74

Marino Sanuto – the Christian World Must be Saved 76

In Conclusion Three Different Images of the World 78

II THE WORLD MAP IN TRANSITION

– Ancient Geography Rises from Oblivion 81

A Forgotten Hybrid Book – The Renaissance Intelligentsia Travel through Time to Antiquity 81

Maximus Planudes' Great Discovery – Ptolemy's Theory of Mapmaking Rises from the Dust 84

Coordinates and Projection* 88

Florentine Humanists Study Ptolemaic Geography 90

The Study of the Geography of Antiquity Gains a Foothold in France 92

Status Symbols of Princes 98

Medieval Map Production: Parchment, Ink, and Quill* 104

Andrea Bianco – the Three Worlds of a Venetian Mariner 106

Ancient Views on the Distribution of Lands and Seas Around the Globe 110

Fra Mauro – the World as Seen from Venice m

Hybrid Maps – the World Map in Transition 116

The La Sfera-Cosmographia – a Renaissance Merchants Armchair Journey 122

Conclusion 130

III TOWARD NEW WORLDS

– Sailing and Printing the Sew Worlds in Maps 133

A Shipwreck Tells a Story About the History of Exploration 133

The First Printed Maps of the World 137

The Art of Printing: A Marriage of Iron, Paper, and Ink 140

Italian and German Book Artisans as Printing Pioneers 143

Fifteenth-Century Portuguese Open Sea Voyages in Maps 144

Francesco Rosselli – Printing the World on Paper in a Small Bottega in Florence 149

Martin Behaim – the German Merchant's Globe 131

Christopher Columbus – the "East Indies" are Found and the World is Divided into Spheres of Interest 133

Juan de la Cosa – The West Indies in Sea Captain's Map is 7

Johannes Ruysch Redraws the Printed World Map 160

Martin Waldseemüller and Amerigo Vespucci – How did the New World Receive its Name? 102

Piri Reis – an Ottoman Admiral Places the New World in a Map 169

Portuguese Map Propaganda and the Everyday Life of the Cartographer 170

Padron Real – the Official and Secret Map of the Kings of the Iberian Peninsula 173

Conclusion 186

IV THE WORLD MAP COMES INTO FOCUS

– Sficffff/ic.4rri5dJ»s Measure the World 189

Mysterious Messengers and the Renaissance Worldview 189

The Mathematical Cosmography of Petrus Apianus and Gemma Frisius 192

Petrus Apianus's Book on Cosmography 194

Oronce Fine – a "Heart" for the King 198

Sebastian Münster – the World Opens up to the Common Man 200

The Venetian Interlude: Battista Agnese, Giacomo Gastaldi, and Girolamo Ruscelli 207

Renaissance Maps Engraved in Wood and Copper 220

Norman Sea Cartographers 222

Abraham Ortelius – the Whole World Between Two Covers 224

Gerard Mercator – the Father of the Modern Map Projection 234

Conclusion 246

V THE WORLD ENCOMPASSED

– The Coining of Sea Traders and Map Publishers 249

The Travels of an Adventurer and the Dutch Golden Age 249

Jan Huygen van Linschoten – the Far East Opens up to the Dutch 234

Petrus Plancius – Better Maps for Maritime Traders 260

Jodocus Hondius – Protestant Cartographic Counterblow 269

Willem Janszoon Blaeu and Joan Blaeu – the Flourishing Map Dynasty of the Father and Son 278

The World Map as a Sphere 282

Conclusion 300

EPILOGUE: SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY, AND EXPLORATION

IN EIGHTEENTH- AND NINETEENTH-CENTURY MAPS Julia Siirinincu 303

References 323

Bibliography 328

Picture list 334

Index 340