

A Bite-Sized Brexit Book

Farmageddon?

Brexit and British Agriculture

Edited by
Caroline Stocks and John Mair
Final Production
Neil Fowler

Published by Bite-Sized Books Ltd 2019

Although the publisher, editors and authors have used reasonable care in preparing this book, the information it contains is distributed as is and without warranties of any kind. This book is not intended as legal, financial, social or technical advice and not all recommendations may be suitable for your situation. Professional advisors should be consulted as needed. Neither the publisher nor the author shall be liable for any costs, expenses or damages resulting from use of or reliance on the information contained in this book.

©John Mair, Caroline Stocks 2019
Bite-Sized Books Ltd Cleeve Croft, Cleeve Road, Goring RG8 9BJ UK
information@bite-sizedbooks.com
Registered in the UK. Company Registration No: 9395379

The moral right of the authors to be identified as the authors of this work has been asserted by them in accordance with the Copyright, Design and Patents Act 1988

Contents

Acknowledgements	1
The Editors	2
Foreword	5
Farmageddon: Why Brexit could spell the end for so many UK farmers
Bio-Waste Spreader, Private Eye (Stephen Carr)
Introduction	9
Farmers were promised simplicity, but the reality of Brexit couldn't be further from that Caroline Stocks
Chapter 1	14
A chance to take back control of British agriculture
George Eustice MP
Chapter 2	19
The end of agriculture as we know it
Alex De Ruyter and David Hearne, Birmingham City University Centre for Brexit Studies
Chapter 3	26
The search for stability and simplicity
Fergus Ewing MSP
Chapter 4	31
Who pays the price for the food we eat?
Guy Smith, NFU vice president

Chapter 5	36
Free trade and tariffs: An agricultural catastrophe waiting to happen
Sir Peter Kendall, AHDB
Chapter 6	40
Once a European farmer, but no longer
Paul Temple
Chapter 7	46
A sector on a knife-edge: How a poor deal could leave Ireland's farmers as Brexit's biggest losers
Matt O'Keefe, Editor, Irish Farmers Monthly
Chapter 8	53
Silence of the lambs: How trade deals and tariffs could force Wales' sheep farmers to sell their flocks
Huw Thomas, NFU Cymru
Chapter 9	58
A time for environmentally friendly policies
Dr Viviane Gravey, Queen's University Belfast
Bite-Sized Brexit books	64
Bite-Sized current affairs books	65
Bite-Sized Books catalogue	66