

Islamic Education in the United States and the Evolution of Muslim Nonprofit Institutions

Sabith Khan

Assistant Professor, California Lutheran University, USA

Shariq Siddiqui

Executive Director, Association for Research on Nonprofit Organizations and Voluntary Action, USA; Visiting Assistant Professor and Director, Muslim Philanthropy Initiative, Lilly Family School of Philanthropy, Indiana University, USA

NEW HORIZONS IN NONPROFIT RESEARCH

Edward Elgar
PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

List of figures	viii
Foreword: Evolution of religious nonprofits in the US: a brief history David C. Hammack	ix
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Sponsors	xvi
1 Introduction	1
2 Islamic philanthropy as a discursive tradition	17
3 Muslim philanthropy and nonprofit institutions in America	46
4 Identification and Muslim American philanthropy	62
5 Philanthropy, institution building and legitimacy in Islamic schools in America	83
6 Interlocutors of tradition or signposts of the future of Islam in America? Islamic schools in the US	106
7 Conclusion: prospects for future growth and development	125
Glossary	137
Index	139